Customer Reviews

I would say this is every woman's nightmare being forced to marry a man you can't stand who has nothing going for him. What a start to what looks to be an outstanding series. This is one story that the author weaves you a wonderful plot of being on the run with danger all around you as you travel across the plains with Indians who just might want a piece of your skin along with your husband and stepfather hot on your trail. This is one author that always gives you an exciting read as you set on the edge wondering what will take place next. This is a story that will keep you up late at night as you get so caught up on all the twists and turns. It was so nice to get an update on the past characters that you have come to love as well as new ones you will love. My heart went out to Genevieve losing her whole family and having to live with the evil stepfather who did not care for her. Her life was hard and rough which made her strong. She is such a sweet lady who gives so much of herself only to have herself be given away in marriage to a man even more evil than her stepfather. I cheered for her when she ran pushing her the whole way as my heart was in my mouth a time or two when things got a little hairy wondering what the outcome would be. Thomas is a man's man with his honorable cowboy ways you are going to fall for him right away. From the first look he was taken in by Genevieve even when he knew he shouldn't he still wanted her. He is a driven man trying to make his father proud. I wish I would know if he was but I am guessing that will come along as the series goes on. His life hasn't been the easiest either not being the number one son always trying to do what was needed but just never good enough. His men come first and then his cattle.
